Marc runs his own business as a Career & Leadership Coach. The main focus of his company is to work with people across different business sectors whose roles have been made redundant. Marc helps them move forward successfully with their career objectives whether that is to find a new role, become self-employed or even retire.

Since starting his new business Marc is also working in education, supporting children who have learning difficulties with CV writing skills. He is also a school Governor at the Academy of St Nicholas in Liverpool and leads on careers.

Before running his own business, Marc worked in Financial Services for 25 years in different HR roles. In the last 10 years he has worked at MBNA, now Lloyds Banking Group in senior HR roles reporting to the Chief People Officer and the Executive Committee. His most recent role was as the Head of Organisational Development & Learning where he was responsible for all aspects of learning and development, succession planning and employee engagement and career management.

Marc's passion is the learning, development and support of children and adults helping them to achieve their educational and career objectives.
